

Guest Editors Introductory Words

Members of the physiological society can hardly imagine better and more stimulating start into the new year than participation in our traditional meeting – Physiological days.

Each year this event confirms the necessity and great outcomes of our mutual scientific discussions, positive relations between the Czech and Slovak Physiological Societies and the ability of both societies to create vivid and interesting Supplementum of the Physiological Research journal. A selection of the best lectures is, as each year, presented in this special issue. Let us to share with our readers two review articles and fourteen original papers. The manuscripts cover a broad spectrum of scientific fields and we do hope that you will enjoy them.

On behalf of the Editorial board

Marie Nováková

Jakub Otáhal

Vladimír Riljak